Harding Might Buy Monticello

foreign-born, are anxious to present to Italy his portrait.

The interest of Secretary Hughes in Italian-American friendship already has received recognition from the Italian government, explained Justice French, who said he had been made a grand officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy because he was one of those most active in the entertainment of visiting Italian celebrities, and because he presided at several anniversary celebrations of Italy's entrance into the war, including two at the Metropolitan opera house and one at the Hippodrome.

Furthermore, it was through the special solicitation of Mr. Hughes that the governors of all the states in the union designated May 24, the date of Italy's entrance into the war, as Italy day, and inaugurated its celebration throughout America.

The signature of the 100,000 Italian admirers of Secretary Hughes who requested him to pose for his portrait are being bound in a handsome volume, which will be presented to him by a subcommittee of the general committee which will take the volume to the secretary of state's office at the capital.

A more appropriate name for the president of the United States could not, we think, be found. When the chief executive wishes to spend a week-end in the country today he is forced to accept the hospitality of friends or to stay at a hotel and be on exhibition. At Monticello he would find a place and a history surrounding a man whose home in the heart of the country is a place to be known and visited after each meal.

Set over a kitchen sink and operated by a water motor connected to a faucet, a new dish washing machine is said to do the work for a family of six persons in three minutes after each meal.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5, 1921. Dr. Pasquale Badia, 2344 Hughes avenue, New York city.

Dear Doctor Badia:

I have received your letter of July 19 informing me of the appointment of your committee, in view of the fact that I was formerly president of the Italian-American society, for the purpose of presenting my portrait to the Italian government in the name of all the Italians in America. I note that the proposal has the approval of the Italian ambassador.

Permit me to express my deep appreciation of this action and of the friendly sentiments which have inspired it. It will give me pleasure to comply with your request, and I hope I may be able to sit for the artist you have designated, Giuseppe Trotta, in the near future. Kindly ask the artist to communicate with me for the purpose of making an appointment which will be mutually convenient.

Please give to the members of your committee my cordial regards, and with assurances of my high esteem, believe me,

Very sincerely yours,

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

Secretary of State.

From Justice John J. French it was learned that this honor to Secretary Hughes was first of all, in recognition of what he has published as president of the Italian-American society over a long period, to cement the friendship of the two countries.

"During his long term as president of the Italian-American society," said Justice French, "Judge Hughes gave much of his valuable time to the program of that organization—and it was an immense program. The Italian-American society was organized for the purpose of promoting more cordial relations between the two countries."

"It was largely through the activities of Judge Hughes that this society brought about the exchange of professorships between Italy and America, the exchange of students and the stimulation of commerce and the things which go to make the two nations better friends. Judge Hughes has always shown the most active interest in things Italian relating to America, and it is in recognition of his sincere friendship for Italy that the Italian citizens of the United States, both native-born and
